PACING

Please remember that this should be adjusted based on your kids. If they need to do less in a day or want to do more, please do not feel you need to follow this exactly. Go at the pace that works for you and your kids.

If your kids can't read yet, read the stories to them for more great listening practice.

I have planned about 5 days for this chapter. Below is an approximate schedule.

Always begin each day with greetings (Buenos días o buenas tardes, ¿Cómo estás?) and calendar time.

Day 1

1. Follow the instructions and script for Total Physical Response (TPR) for the verbs.
2. Show this video for listening practice with the pictures.
3. Start conversation (PQA) with one verb (pasa, me gusta, le encanta, espera). If you're learning Spanish with your kids, you can start watching this video and this video with examples from the script.

Day 2

1. Review vocabulary with TPR by saying the words (in a random order) and going through the list at least once.
2. Complete the Conversation Script (PQA). You can watch this video with the questions for the mini-story outline.

Tip: The Conversation Script (PQA) is an area that may need to be broken up over 2 or 3 days depending on your kids' interest level and age. If you want to break it up, do PQA with one verb at a time. For instance, ask the questions for "pasa" one day and then "espera" the next.

Day 3

1. Review vocabulary with TPR by saying the words (in a random order) and going through the list at least once OR have kids read the mini-story from the previous lesson. You can also check my website for a story that my kids and I have created (called Mini-Story Example).
2. Complete the listening activity and the first version of the story La bolera. I recorded the story on this video. You can have kids listen to the beginning of the video and draw what they hear.

Day 4

1. Review the vocabulary that is most challenging to your kids with TPR saying the words a few times in random order OR play Memoria (Memory), Matamoscas (Flyswatter), or Peces (Go Fish).
2. Complete the second version of the story La bolera.

Day 5

1. Review the vocabulary with TPR if needed OR play one of the games mentioned in #1 of Day 4.
2. If you have the workbook, read chapter 4 and complete any corresponding activities.
3. Complete the Todo sobre mí activity.

TIPS:

Try to read for a few minutes each day. Reading is very important for language acquisition!

If you don't have the workbook, definitely write the mini-story you and your kids create from the story outline in the Conversation Script for additional reading practice. And/or use the Mini-Story that I created with my kids.
